ha7lh skwáyel ta newyáp (good day to you all),

Thank you for your continued patience as we work on this critical and complex project. Our work has been progressing steadily and in a good way as we weave our Skwxwú7mesh culture and protocols together with advanced scientific technologies and methodologies.

As you may remember, the fieldwork began in August last year and will continue until we have certainty. The next step for the data we collected was to analyze and layer the data generated from the Ground Penetrating Radar (GPR), LiDAR, and Electrical Resistivity. We collected over 50 million data points that had to be analyzed after the completion of the groundwork.

Due to the precise nature of the work, analysis has taken time. We are employing two separate teams to conduct the analysis. These teams analyze without communicating with each other, which is called a “double blind” approach and follows scientific best practices. The information the data generated now offers us the next layer of information and provides us with direction for what to focus on next.

The data has identified areas of interest at the former St. Paul's Indian Residential School that require further examination. These GPR, LiDAR, and Electrical Resistivity results are inconclusive. The data only shows areas that need the next layer of scientific review to be understood.

For the next phase of the work, we will use a percussion corer for sediment analysis. This method is minimally invasive and will offer us the next layer of scientific analysis in this process. The work using those methods will begin in the coming weeks.

We have also produced a video to explain the process to date, as well as what you can expect in the coming weeks and months as the Yúusnewas work continues. You can watch that video by scanning the QR code.

As always, we would also like to remind you that health and wellness supports are in place for anyone in need in the community and will continue to be offered throughout this work.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
EXTERNAL/INTERNAL POSTING
Associate Dean of Curriculum Development

Native Education College (NEC) is a large private Indigenous college in Vancouver and works with First Nations and Indigenous organizations to deliver programs in locations throughout British Columbia. NEC works to strengthen Indigenous communities through accredited programs that lead to employment and higher learning. We are seeking an Associate Dean of Curriculum and Instruction. At NEC, we are grounded in our Longhouse values of Diversity, Respect, Gratitude, Understanding and Accountability; these are the qualities we seek in a successful candidate.

Position Summary:

The Associate Dean of Curriculum Development will support the Dean of Curriculum and Instruction and the Academic Team on curriculum and instruction initiatives. The position works toward the ongoing development and design of academic and educational programs and learning materials for all programs at the NEC. The position develops proposals, and manages efficient and effective curriculum development processes, and coordinates academic quality with internal academic staff using the best practices of Indigenous education and our Longhouse Values.

Main Responsibilities:

- Ensure that the NEC curriculum reflects the cultural values and educational needs of delivering training in Indigenous communities.
- Promote excellence in curriculum design, focusing on Indigenous pedagogy and the prevention of genocide.
- Ensure that the NEC curriculum is developed to the required specifications and maintained in a well-organized written and electronic format.
- Ensure all curriculum development projects use the best practices of project management.
- Ensure that the NEC curriculum reflects the best practices of Indigenous adult education.

Preferred Qualifications:

- A degree in a related field (e.g., adult education, higher education, administration) from an accredited institution and at least three years of curriculum development or instructional design experience in a post-secondary setting, or an equivalent combination of education and experience.
- Excellent organizational, project management, writing, editing, and planning skills.
- Commitment to quality in education and the ability to manage continuous improvement from concept to reality.
- Willingness to learn and understand the traditional laws and protocols of the Host Nations.
- Skills in managing teams and interdisciplinary work groups
- Understanding of Indigenous adult education methodologies and practices.

Terms:

Appointment to this full-time position will require a formal criminal record check, the details of which may preclude finalizing an offer of employment. Members of equity-seeking groups are encouraged to apply. NEC encourages members of equity-seeking groups to apply. Preference will be given to qualified Indigenous applicants.

Closing Date: Until Filled
Start Date: ASAP
Hours: Monday to Friday - 8:30 am to 4:30 pm
Salary: $ 38.90/hour as per collective agreement

Application Details:

Please submit your resume, names of three references from related work experience, and a cover letter outlining your interest and detailing how you meet the above qualifications. Only short-listed applicants will be contacted. Address your application to:
