Employment Tip

When sending a resume or cover letter for a job, highlight the skills and experiences that directly match the job posting. Use keywords and phrases directly from the posting – by using keywords your application will stand out. Tailoring your application to the job posting shows the hiring manager you've read the job description and understand the role. Instead of listing all your skills, focus on the ones most relevant to the position. This not only makes your application stronger but also helps the hiring manager see you're a good candidate.

Department: Human Resources

Title: Talent Liaison

Time working with the Nation: I began my journey working for the Squamish Nation in 2022 as a Shared Admin Support in the Human Resources Department. In 2023, I was promoted to an HR Talent Acquisition Coordinator, where I gained tremendous experience and knowledge. This allowed me to thrive in my role as a Talent Recruiter; a new role I took on in 2024. Earlier this year, I was promoted to the Talent Liaison role. I couldn't be happier with this role. I can connect with Squamish Nation people daily and assist them in finding employment within their Nation. I am very lucky to work alongside such a wonderful team. The support I receive is extraordinary.
